

You Never Know What's Hiding in Your Project That's Ready to Take a Bite Out of Your Budget.

A host of complex variables can be lurking just beneath the surface of your project. Their solution determines your success.

U.S. COST provides project controls services and products (cost management services, project and program scheduling, value engineering and software solutions) for capital projects to owners, architects and engineers. With the best guides in the business, including professional estimators in all trade disciplines, schedulers, certified value specialists, software programmers and software integrators, U.S. COST can lead you safely past the dangers ready to eat up your budget.

From scope and budget definition through project execution, U.S. COST is your single source for the controls that ensure safe navigation through what can be a project execution swamp. By doing so, our people and products truly are Solving the Building Equation.

Solving the Building Equation

800.955.1385 • www.uscost.com